About the conference: This annual university conference encourages students of Humanities and Social Sciences to present their research findings in English. With its focus on promoting cooperation among young scholars, the conference brings together students and novice researchers from various backgrounds. It gives an opportunity to share research results, opinions, and diverse perspectives on a wide range of relevant issues engaging students into academic debate. The conference also aims to improve public speaking skills and integrate students into the academic community. We invite submissions from students on relevant theoretical and practical issues in the Humanities and Social Sciences including philosophy, political science, sociology, linguistics and beyond.

Submission information:

We invite you to submit:

- Application form (online)
- Reference letter signed by the applicant's supervisor / scientific adviser to ensure the paper meets academic standards

Presentation format: 7-minute presentations + 3-minute Q&A

We strongly suggest that the presentation includes: problem statement, arguments to confirm relevance of the talk, literature review, methods and results, discussion / conclusion and references.

Please submit your application and a legible scan of the supervisor's / scientific adviser's reference letter through the following link:
